Ask the Woman Who Owns One

"Mel Turner's wife traded her iron board, a corner cupboard, a new flour barrel, an $24.00 for a Hoosier Special."

She got the "best" kitchen cabinet at a bargain—your bargain is even better.

Only one factory in the world makes the "best" kitchen cabinet, and we are fortunate in having engaged for you a part of the special output they made up for Christmas.

The Hoosier Special at $28.00 is made by skilled artisans who use both hands and brains, and think constantly about your little comforts and conveniences that count in your work.

Mr. Husband:

You ought to talk to us.

Christmas you know.

That is why Hoosier Specials (on our agreeable club terms) are such favorites for Thanksgiving and the holidays, and it is not for long we can promise as we do now, "immediate delivery."

For this reason we should like to introduce this Hoosier Special to you personally now, with an easy plan for owning one.

Even though you examine the cabinets several times, you need not feel under the slightest obligations to purchase.

Much real homey humor is to be found in the beautiful pastoral play, "The Volunteer Organist," which comes to the opera house to-night. The characters, which are drawn from a locality in Vermont that seems to be apart from the rest of the world, are real studies. Like the Irishman, the humor of the Vermonters is spontaneous and seldom exaggerated.

Thanksgiving day at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Holy communion at 8 a. m., evening prayer and thanksgiving address by the rector at 7 o'clock. All the members of the choir are asked to be present at the evening service. A good program of pictures and vaudeville was the offering at the Pavilion last night. The Wills proved to be very entertaining, and their comedy well liked. Gertrude Byron also came in for a good share of the applause. To-night will be "corner grocery" night, with a fine large turkey as the big prize and number of smaller packages of groceries at lesser prices. Let us hope that the person who wins the turkey will be the one who can give best cheer to the most persons.

No poet is more popular than Tennyson, and of his poems none more fully deserves appreciation than his charming tale of Lancelot, the doughty knight of King Arthur's round table, and Elaine, the lily maid of Augusta. Carefully preserving the artistic atmosphere of the poem, the producers have realized in pictures the graceful story of the flowing rhyme, with an appreciation of the charming story. The picture is sure to make new patrons for the Comique, where it is being run, as it is one the most masterly poem productions ever made.
